DETAILED ACTION

1. No amendments have been made to the claims in the response filed on May 31, 2007. Claims 1-5, 7-10, 12, and 13 are pending.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claims 1-5, 7-10, 12, and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter, which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

The claims recite the phrase "comprising at least one resin having a first melting temperature of from about 90-100°C, a wax component having a second melting temperature of from about 50-60°C...". In the specification of the patent, the only description of such a blend is far more limited. It describes a blend of a pressure sensitive adhesive having a melting point of 90-100°C and an olefinic component having a melting temperature from about 50-60°C. This is a very specific combination of materials. The patentees do not have support for the concept of broadening this to generically to a mixture of generic resins having a melting point of 90-100°C, a wax component having a second melting temperature of from about 50-60°C. While there are olefinic waxes, there are a number of waxes that are not olefinic and there is no support for broadening the claim to be generic to waxes in this context. The examiner believes that the patentees have neither conceptual nor literal support for the current amendment.

In the original claim the applicants had the language "at least one resin or wax component"... In the initial set of amended claims, the applicants amended the claims to include "or a mixture thereof." The examiner maintains that the earlier amendment is within the scope of the original disclosure, but the current amendment diverges significantly from the original disclosure.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed on May 31, 2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The patentees traverse the above rejection and argue that the specification also generally refers to the components of the composition described in the illustrated embodiments as "resin or wax components." [Bunyan et al., at col. 9, 11. 35-37] and further submit that the specification itself is not expressly limited as to any specific combination of materials. However, the Examiner disagrees. As pointed out above, the patentees do not have support for the concept of broadening their claims to a generic mixture of generic resins having a melting point of 90-100°C, a wax component having a second melting temperature of from about 50-60°C. While there are olefinic waxes, there are a number of waxes that are not olefinic and there is no support for broadening the claim to be generic to waxes in this context. The Examiner again states that the patentees have neither conceptual nor literal support for the current amendment. Hence, the above rejection is maintained.

Conclusion

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

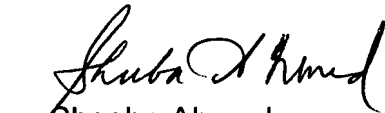

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
